

THE ASHGATE
RESEARCH COMPANION to
FAN CULTURES

Edited by

LINDA DUIT, KOOS ZWAAN
AND STIJN REIJNDERS

THE ASHGATE RESEARCH COMPANION TO FAN CULTURES

ASHGATE
RESEARCH
COMPANION

The Ashgate Research Companions are designed to offer scholars and graduate students a comprehensive and authoritative state-of-the-art review of current research in a particular area. The companions' editors bring together a team of respected and experienced experts to write chapters on the key issues in their speciality, providing a comprehensive reference to the field.

The Ashgate Research Companion to Fan Cultures

Edited by

LINDA DUITZ

Utrecht University, The Netherlands

KOOS ZWAAN

Inholland University of Applied Sciences, The Netherlands

STIJN REIJNDERS

Erasmus University Rotterdam, The Netherlands

ASHGATE

© Linda Duits, Koos Zwaan, Stijn Reijnders and the contributors 2014

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system or transmitted in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording or otherwise without the prior permission of the publisher.

Linda Duits, Koos Zwaan and Stijn Reijnders have asserted their right under the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act, 1988, to be identified as the editors of this work.

Published by Ashgate Publishing Limited
Wey Court East
Union Road
Farnham
Surrey, GU9 7PT
England

Ashgate Publishing Company
110 Cherry Street
Suite 3-1
Burlington, VT 05401-3818
USA

www.ashgate.com

British Library Cataloguing in Publication Data

A catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data

Duits, Linda.

The Ashgate research companion to fan cultures / by Linda Duits, Koos Zwaan, and Stijn Reijnders.

pages cm

Includes bibliographical references and index.

ISBN 978-1-4094-5562-2 (hardback)—ISBN 978-1-4094-5563-9 (ebook)—ISBN 978-1-4724-0477-0 (epub) 1. Fans (Persons) 2. Subculture. I. Zwaan, Koos. II. Reijnders, Stijn, 1976– III. Title.

HM646.D85 2014

306'.1—dc23

2014006155

ISBN 9781409455622 (hbk)

ISBN 9781409455639 (ebk – PDF)

ISBN 9781472404770 (ebk – ePUB)

Contents

Notes on Contributors	vii
Acknowledgements	xi
Introduction Koos Zwaan, Linda Duits and Stijn Reijnders	1
PART I RE-DEFINING THE FAN
1 Returning to 'Becoming-a-Fan' Stories: Theorising Transformational Objects and the Emergence/Extension of Fandom Matt Hills	9
2 Populating the Universe: Toy Collecting and Adult Lives Kristen N. Bryant, Denise D. Bielby and C. Lee Harrington	23
3 Much Ado about Keanu Reeves: The Drama of Ageing in Online Fandom Shenja van der Graaf	35
4 Music for (Something Other than) Pleasure: Anti-fans and the Other Side of Popular Music Appeal Liz Giuffre	49
5 A Severe Case of Disliking Bimbo Heidi, Scumbag Jesse and Bastard Tiger: Analysing Celebrities' Online Anti-fans Nathalie Claessens and Hilde Van den Bulck	63
6 Fandom as Survival in Media Life The Janissary Collective	77
7 From Interpretive Communities to Interpretative Fairs: Ordinary Fandom, Textual Selection and Digital Media Cornel Sandvoss and Laura Kearns	91
PART II FANS AND PRODUCERS
8 Fan/Celebrity Interactions and Social Media: Connectivity and Engagement in Lady Gaga Fandom Lucy Bennett	109
9 Fans of Folklore Performances: Identifying a New Relationship Between Communication and Marketing Angela Chang	121

10	Investors and Patrons, Gatekeepers and Social Capital: Representations and Experiences of Fans' Participation in Fan Funding Francesco D'Amato	135
11	Music Fans as Mediators in the Age of Digital Reproduction Arturo Arriagada and Victor Cruz	149
12	Celebrity: The Return of the Repressed in Fan Studies? Mark Duffett	163
13	Fans Who Cut Their Soaps Queer: A Queer Theoretical Study into Online Fandom of Gay Television Representation Frederik Dhaenens and Sofie Van Bauwel	181
PART III LOCALITIES OF FANDOM
14	Transnational Cultural Fandom Hye-Kyung Lee	195
15	Retreating Behind the Scenes: The 'Less'-Civilizing Impact of Virtual Spaces on the Irish Heavy Metal Scene Gary Sinclair	209
16	'Kvlt-er than Thou': Power, Suspicion and Nostalgia within Black Metal Fandom Ross Hagen	223
17	A Decade in the Life of Online Fan Communities Ruth A. Deller	237
18	Placing Fan Cultures: Xenites in the Transnational Spaces of Fandom Kaarina Nikunen	249
19	Embodied Fantasy: The Affective Space of Anime Conventions Nicolle Lamerichs	263
20	Watching Football in the Fan Park: Mediatization, Spectatorship and Fan Identity Karin Becker, Robert Kautsky and Andreas Widholm	275
21	'We're Not Racist, We Only Hate Mancs': Post-Subculture and Football Fandom Steve Redhead	289
	Index	303

Notes on Contributors

Arturo Arriagada is Assistant Professor at the Communications Faculty of Diego Portales University, Chile. He holds a PhD in Sociology from the London School of Economics and Political Science. His work has been published in the Journal of Communication and the International Journal of Press/Politics.

Karin Becker is Professor Emerita in Media Studies at Stockholm University. Her research examines cultural histories and contemporary contexts of visual media practices and media in public space. She directs the Nordforsk-funded Network of Digital Visuality and Changing Places, a project funded by the Swedish Research Council, examining global and local events as mediated through public screens. Her co-authored books include Picturing Politics (2000, Stockholm University/JMK) and Consuming Media (2007, Berg).

Lucy Bennett graduated with a PhD in online fandom at Cardiff University. Her research examines audiences and the internet, with focuses on fandom and social media. Her work appears in the journals New Media & Society, Transformative Works and Cultures, Journal of Fandom Studies, Celebrity Studies, Cinema Journal, Participations and Continuum. She is also the co-founder of the Fan Studies Network.

Denise D. Bielby is Professor of Sociology at the University of California, Santa Barbara, and affiliated faculty in the Department of Film and Media Studies. She is the author of numerous scholarly publications on the culture industries of television and film, audiences and popular culture and aging and the life course. With C. Lee Harrington she is the co-author of Soap Fans (1995, Temple University Press), Global TV (2008, New York University Press), and co-editor of Popular Culture: Production and Consumption (2001, Blackwell) and, also with Anthony Bardo, of Aging, Media, and Culture (2014, Lexington).

Kristen N. Bryant is a doctoral student in the Department of Sociology at the University of California, Santa Barbara (USA). She is currently completing work on her MA thesis, examining the role of toys in adult lives.

Angela Chang is Assistant Professor in the Department of Communication at the University of Macau. She holds a PhD in Communications and Advertising from the Union Institute & University, USA. Chang has conducted research and published papers on advertising strategy, consumer behaviour and eye-tracking study.

Nathalie Claessens is Postdoctoral Researcher and Visiting Professor at the Media, Policy and Culture Research group of the University of Antwerp, Belgium. Her PhD focused on the social and cultural meaning of the mediated phenomenon of celebrities for contemporary Western audiences.

Victor Cruz is a PhD candidate in English Literature at King's College London. His research explores the history of intersections between new media and music subcultures.

Francesco D'Amato is Sociologist and Research Professor at the University of Rome 'La Sapienza', in the Department of Communication and Social Research. His teaching, research and publications are mainly focused on cultural industries and music studies. He is conceiver and coordinator of the master course in Management, Marketing e Comunicazione della Musica. Among his latest publications is Musica e Industria (2009, Carocci).

Ruth A. Deller is Principal Lecturer at Sheffield Hallam University. Her research interests include internet cultures, fandoms and television. She has co-edited journal special issues on Fifty Shades (Sexualities, December 2013) and 'transforming the makeover' (International Journal of Cultural Studies, 2014). Her own fandoms include Neighbours, Roxette and Grimsby Town FC.

Mark Deuze is Professor of Media Studies at the Department of Media Studies of the University of Amsterdam, The Netherlands. From 2004 to 2013 he worked at Indiana University's Department of Telecommunications in the United States. He has published seven books including Media Life (Polity Press, 2012). Weblog: <http://deuze.blogspot.com>.

Frederik Dhaenens is a Research Member of CIMS (Centre for Cinema and Media Studies) at the Department of Communication Studies, Ghent University, Belgium. He is a lecturer at Erasmus University Rotterdam and Antwerp University, and his education and research deals with media, popular culture and diversity.

Mark Duffett is Senior Lecturer in Media and Cultural Studies at the University of Chester. His research interests centre on popular music fandom. Mark was keynote speaker at the MARS 2012 conference in Finland and has recently published a textbook called Understanding Fandom (2013, Bloomsbury).

Linda Duits is an Affiliate Researcher with the Institute for Cultural Inquiry of Utrecht University, The Netherlands. She is interested in the interplay between media, meaning and identity. Her work has been published in, amongst others, the European Journal of Women's Studies and the European Journal of Communication.

Liz Giuffre has a PhD and MA (research) from Macquarie University, Sydney, Australia. Her areas of research include popular music and media content and reception, screen sound creation and engagement, audience and fan studies and forms of creative criticism. She also works as an independent arts journalist and fan, and is currently completing a book on Australian music television.

Shenja van der Graaf is a Senior Researcher at iMinds-SMIT, VUB, Belgium, and fellow at MIT Media Lab ID³ Hub, USA. Her research interests include (new) media cultures and 'cultures of expertise'. Forthcoming publications include At Home in Brussels: Professional Mobility as a Service (2014, co-authored, First Monday).

Ross Hagen is a Lecturer at Utah Valley University. Hagen's research deals primarily with music fandom and intersections between popular music and the twentieth-century avant-garde. Current publications include articles in the books Metal Rules the Globe (2012, Duke University Press), Hardcore Punk and Other Junk (2014, Lexington Books) and the journal Horror Studies (2013). Hagen is also active as a bassist and composer.

C. Lee Harrington is Professor of Sociology at Miami University (USA). Research areas include television studies, fan studies and the sociology of law. With Denise Bielby she is the co-author of Soap Fans (1995, Temple University Press) and Global TV (2008, NYU Press) and the co-editor of Popular Culture: Production and Consumption (2001, Blackwell).

Matt Hills is Professor of Film and TV Studies at Aberystwyth University. He is the author of five books, including Fan Cultures (2002, Routledge) and Triumph of a Time Lord (2010, I.B. Tauris), and editor of New Dimensions of Doctor Who. Matt has published widely on fandom and is an Associate Editor of Cinema Journal.

The Janissary Collective is an informal writer's collective at Indiana University and the University of Amsterdam. Established in 2009, the Collective is a writer's group consisting of students (both graduate and undergraduate) and faculty from different units advocating a militant rejection of disciplinary dogma, and an aggressive pursuit of free thinking beyond traditional theories, paradigms and methods. The chapter in this volume was written by Collective members Mark Deuze and Kathryn Thompson.

Robert Kautsky is currently pursuing a PhD in the Department of Media Studies at Stockholm University, Sweden, on the topic of photojournalism, news agencies and the global distribution of news imagery.

Laura Kearns, formerly of the University of Surrey, now works as a Project Manager in the telecommunications industry in London, United Kingdom.

Nicolle Lamerichs is a Lecturer at Utrecht University, The Netherlands, in the Department of New Media and Digital Culture. She analyses the intermediality of media texts and the fan practices inspired by them. Nicolle has published in Transformative Works and Cultures and several academic collections such as Sherlock and Transmedia Fandom (2012, McFarland).

Hye-Kyung Lee is Lecturer in the Department of Culture, Media and Creative Industries at King's College London. She researches and teaches cultural policy, cultural industries and cultural consumption within European and East Asian contexts. Her current work is focused on creative industries discourse, cultural policy development in South Korea and transnational fandom of East Asian cultural products. She is currently co-editing Cultural Policies in East Asia: Dynamics between the State, Arts and Cultural Industries (2014, Palgrave).

Kaarina Nikunen is University Lecturer at the School of Communication, Media and Theatre at the University of Tampere, Finland. Her research focuses on digital culture and audiences, gender and sexuality as well as transnational media and multiculturalism. She is the editor of Media in Motion: Cultural Complexity in the Nordic Region (2011, Ashgate, co-editor E. Eide) and Pornification: Sex and Sexuality in Media Culture (2007, Berg, co-editors S. Paasonen, L. Saarenmaa). Her PhD, 'Faniuden aika' ['The Moment of Fandom'] (2005, Tampere University Press), explored television fandom in Finland.

Steve Redhead is Professor of Sports Media, Associate Dean Research and Head of School of Human Movement Studies in the Faculty of Education at Charles Sturt University, Bathurst, Australia. He is the author of 15 books. His personal website is: <http://www.steveredhead.com>.

Stijn Reijnders is Professor of Cultural Heritage, in particular in relation to tourism and popular culture, and Educational Director of the Erasmus School of History, Culture and Communication at the Erasmus University Rotterdam. His research focuses on the relation between media culture and everyday life. In June 2011, he published his second monograph, entitled Places of the Imagination: Media, Tourism, Culture (2011, Ashgate), funded by the Dutch Science Foundation.

Cornel Sandvoss is Senior Lecturer in Sociology at the University of Surrey. He has published widely on the interplay between consumption, media, identity and globalisation including Bodies of Discourse: Sport Stars, Media and the Global Public (2012, Peter Lang, with Michal Real and Alina Bernstein) and A Game of Two Halves: Football, Television and Globalization (2003, Routledge), as well as fans and fan cultures: Fans: The Mirror of Consumption (2005, Polity Press) and Fandom: Identities and Communities in a Mediated World (2007, NYU Press, with Jonathan Gray and Lee Harrington). He is a former Chair of the Popular Communication Division of ICA and currently working on an AHRC funded project on the aesthetics of participatory culture.

Gary Sinclair is an Early-Career Fellow in Marketing at the University of Stirling. His recently completed PhD thesis, funded by the Dublin Institute of Technology, concerns the study of Irish heavy metal fandom practices. His main research interests include the study of emotion, music subcultures, ethnography and referring to himself in the third person.

Kathryn Thompson is a doctoral candidate in the Department of Gender Studies at Indiana University Bloomington. Her research interests include the narration and performance of intersectional difference in online spaces, as well as autoethnographic and phenomenological explorations of new media technology.

Sofie Van Bauwel is Associate Professor in Media Studies in the Department of Communication Studies at Ghent University where she is a member of the Centre for Cinema and Media Studies (CIMS). She has published internationally and nationally on popular media culture, feminist theory and visual culture.

Hilde Van den Bulck is Professor of Communication Studies and head of the Media, Policy and Culture research group at the University of Antwerp. Her expertise is situated in the complementary areas of media structures and of media culture and identities, in the latter focusing increasingly on celebrities.

Andreas Widholm is Lecturer in the Department of Media Studies at Stockholm University. His research centres on media and identity, transnational news journalism and social and cultural consequences of new media technologies. Andreas has also been researcher in residence at Swedish Radio.

Koos Zwaan is Associate Professor in Media, Culture and Citizenship at the Inholland University of Applied Sciences. His research interests include popular music and popular culture, the music industry and new media. He recently published a volume entitled Adapting Idols: Authenticity, Identity and Performance in a Global Television Format (2012, Ashgate, co-editor Joost de Bruin).

Acknowledgements

The editors would like to thank the Erasmus Trustfonds for its financial support, Neil Jordan from Ashgate for his patient advice and Lieven Heeremans for making the index. Special thanks to all authors for their contributions and critical reviews.

This page has been left blank intentionally